

EVER QUOTE A JOB, THEN FIND OUT YOU GAVE IT AWAY?

Set your labor rate, your material margin and your overhead one time. After that you put in the hours and the parts, and the right price comes out with your margin already in it. Turn the phone around and the customer gets a clean estimate.

WHAT THIS DOES THAT THE FLAT-RATE BOOKS DON'T

- The numbers are yours. The flat-rate books sell you their price list and update it every quarter. Dead Hand ships the shape of a job with every price blank. Your town, your overhead, your payroll — not somebody else's.
- You aren't charged by the head. Per-tech pricing means the same book costs you more every time you hire. This is flat by the size of the shop.
- Nothing to set up. No implementation fee, no onboarding package, no consultant. You put your rates in the first time you open it and you're working.
- The price is on the website. You don't have to sit through a demo to find out what it costs.
- You see your margin while you build the price. Every line shows what it cost you and what you're making on it — before you say the number, not after the job.

A MONTH

The per-tech price books shops get pitched run about three times that for one man, plus a few hundred dollars before you quote anything — then they charge again for every tech you add. Need the whole book of jobs priced and ready? That's $45 to $180 a month, flat by shop size.
